Results: writing assignments and policy proposal(s) well-articulated as argumentation and consistent as research design.

Tutorial advice and consultation, both on line and one-to one; group work consultations in the light of group work assignments and exams preparation.

Updating the curriculum and the design of courses, in consultation with the course leader(s) and the guest lecturer(s)

Preparation of course materials (classroom and online library); Acting as second grader for individual assignments, group assignments and/or exams

Research/ Publications: Romania's accession process into the European Union--Discourses at policy-program-, and project- levels in the justice sector (co-author Des Gasper); paper presented at the International Conference in Interpretive Policy Analysis, Essex University, 2008

2003-2005 Informational manager, Probation Department, Ministry of Justice, Romania

Responsible for the data management system at national level, preparing input, drafting policy proposals and preparing policy recommendations, for the decision making

Prepared sound data for the implementation of the European Model of Excellence EFQM, under British supervision and expertise transfer [DFID program]

Contributor to the implementation of three international projects of expertise transfer and capacity building:

PHARE Twinning 2003 "Support for improving juvenile justice in Romania [2003-2005] with expertise transfers from France, Austria, Belgium, Italy and Portugal

Project goals: to ensure the expertise transfer on the component of institutional development and human resource development; to develop a proposal design for an efficient model of management in the field of juvenile justice

A multidisciplinary team of professionals was trained (magistrates, court clerks, probation counsellors) and an integrative approach was leading the intervention.

A new management system, compatible with the European good practices was set up, in order to improve the quality of the judicial act, and to ensure the celerity of the judgment in cases with minors.

MATRA Program: Introducing Probation in Romania [2001-2002] financed by the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs, with expertise transfer ensured by the Netherlands Probation Service

The project supported the Romanian authorities and the NGOs in their initiative to establish a Probation Service in Bucharest, pilot project with mediated results at national level

I was member of the management team, giving my contribution on the component of strategic management and institutional reform; A study visit in The Netherlands was part of the project in which we benefitted of 10 days of intensive training, stakeholders consultations, focus groups and strategic consultations with prosecutors, managers from prisons of high security, informational managers – based on which a strategic plan of management and institutional reform was thought as part of the national strategy of reform in the Romanian field of justice.

DFID Program of technical expertise [2001-2005]. Informational manager with key attributions in a) implementing a new data management system, at national level b) delivering the educational component of training –dealing with new data and sources of information; c) converting data in narrative reports, tools for the policy decision making.

Coordinating students in the field work and help them finalize their research project: joint actions for data collection and data analysis. Techniques, tips and traps in working with different corpus of data; conducting an interview/stakeholder consultations/focus group. How to deal with biased data and/or manipulated sources of information.

Research, studies, publications in the field of criminology & penology, social deviance & social problems.

1998 Assistant of the local consultant of the World Bank in a project of social intervention and social reform” Restructuring mining areas in Romania” (a freelance project of 6 months)

The project of reorganization of the mining sector in Romania was subject of political contest and protest. The effects of institutional reorganization and massive dismissal from 1990 led to social revolts and national protests. Well known in internal media and abroad were the serials of ‘Mineriads [ 1990-1999]’, structural events perceived as organized attempts-- with a threatening component for the national security. In order to investigate the effects of a contested political decision, a project coordinated and funded by WB Mission in Romania was launched in 1998, with the support of the local governance as implementing actor.

I was member of the research team ( 2 consultants and 3 research assistants)-giving my contribution from the research design to evaluation and report. My tasks involved:

Field work: a) coordination and supervision of the research team [250 students]; b) Data collection and data analysis; c) Stake- holder consultation; d) Focus groups discussions and e) Qualitative studies

Desk work: methodology design, producing data output, policy briefs and one publication – serving as policy tools for the Government of the Day

1995-1998 Psychologist, The Romanian Group for the Defense of Human Rights

Psychological counselling and assistance for women and minors in detention and/or post release using classical and alternative methods (dramatherapy, group work intervention, Goldstein therapy etc )

Research Coordinator of a diagnostic survey measuring the living conditions of asylum seekers and refugees in Romania and their possibilities of integration (UNHCR project, 1995). The research dealt with the social, economic, and legislative measures and the identification of the alternative solutions for accommodating asylum seekers/refugees in Romania. (see section D in CV).
